SACSCOC Reaffirmation Basics

- Peer-review process to determine if GT is academically and organizationally qualified to award academic credit
- Timing: every ten years
- Current process—June 2013-December 2015
- Two parts: Compliance Certification, Quality Enhancement Plan
- Desired outcome: reaffirmation with no significant remedial work required and an action plan for the improvement of Georgia Tech academically and organizationally
Reaffirmation Process Timeline

- September 2014—Compliance Certification due for off-site review
- October/November 2014—Off-site review completed and focused report delivered to GT
- January 2015—QEP and focused report response due
- March 9-12, 2015—On-site review
- December 2015—SACSCOC decision on reaffirmation
Compliance Certification

- An audit of every aspect of the GTs academic and administrative programs—95 core requirements, comprehensive standards, and federal requirements

- Three chances to be judged in compliance—off-site review, QEP/focused report, and on-site review
Early warning

Principles and core requirements that result in the most “out of compliance” rulings for Track B institutions:

CS 3.7.1 Faculty Competence
CS 3.3.11 Institutional effectiveness-educational programs
CR 2.11.1 Financial resources
CS 3.3.1.3. Institutional effectiveness-educational support
CS 3.3.1.2 Institutional effectiveness-administrative units
Quality Enhancement Plan

- A plan for a project which is faculty-driven and focused on enhancing student learning and/or the environment for student learning
- Aligns with the GT Strategic Plan
- Five year effort with funding and support from GT
- Includes rigorous assessment of learning outcomes
- Broadly known and supported on campus
- 80% of the on-site visit will be about the QEP

The Opportunity of Reaffirmation

• Compels us to review every aspect of the Institute’s academic and administrative programs
• Helps us to identify problems and new accountability requirements and address them in a timely manner
• Creates One Georgia Tech
• Ties our academic and administrative programs and decisions to the strategic plan
